AMUSEMENTS.

DAINTY MAY SARGENT.

—As a fitting wind-up to the season, the management of the Grand present to-night, one of the best attractions seen in the house this year. The Lexington Democrat of last Sunday had the following to say of the production:

"Dainty May Sargent made her appearance before a Lexington audience yesterday. Her coming had been much heralded and those who attended the performance yesterday afternoon and last night were expecting much.
They were not disappointed, they were in fact agreeably surprised. Miss Sargent is a clever little woman and even more beautiful than she is clever. She has already come into prominence on the stage and has a future as promising as any of the younger players whose reputation has not yet become firmly and widely established.

"She made many ardent admirers here yesterday who will gladly welcome her return when she may see fit to visit Lexington again. The play presented was the delightful farce comedy, 'Other People's Money.' It is one of those plays that was written to provoke laughter along natural and legitimate lines and in this it abundantly succeeded.

"The characters were not overdrawn and the bright lines were thoroughly appreciated by the audience. The company supporting Miss Sargent is an excellent one. Those that deserve special mention are Sam J. Roberts as Hutchinson Hopper, Edwin T. White as Oliver Sturbird and Gertrude Norman as Millicent Hopper. The gowns worn by Miss Sargent were as handsome and elaborate as any ever seen on the stage in this city. They would do justice to the most magnificent production."

NAT GOODWIN AND MAXINE ELLIOTT.

—The principal dramatic event at the Lexington Opera House of the entire season will be the appearance on Monday, April 27, of Nat C. Goodwin and Maxine Elliott. They will present their recent success, 'The Altar of Friendship,' one of the most delightful comedies ever written.

FINE CARRIAGES.—J. S. Wilson & Bro., have just placed in stock some

FOR SALE.—All kinds of Garden Plants. Large tomato plants now

In a short time the "sweet girl graduate" will take possession of things, with glowing triumph and high hopes of an ethereal future, regardless of the humdrum life into which the class of last year has, as a rule, already settled down.

CHURCH CHIMES.

a series of meetings at Maysville.

church, in this city, Sunday morning and night.

—Rev. J. E. Moss, of the Kentucky Wesleyan College, Winchester, will conduct services at the Methodist church in this city Sunday.

—The Boston minister put it pretty strong who says: "No woman who wears a seagull or a song bird on her hat can ever get to heaven."

—Rev. G. W. Argabrite, who recently moved from Paris to Georgetown, has accepted from the Georgia State Board an appointment as evangelist.

—Rev. R. H. Tandy will preach Sunday morning and night at the Baptist church in this city. Elder Hagerman will fill the pulpit at the Christian church.

—"Tasting the White" of an Egg," was the queer title of a talk given by Dr. C. F. Evans at the First M. E. church, in Maysville, Thursday evening.

ROASTED MEATS RARE.

A Philadelphia Chef Says That Roasting Is Almost an Unknown Process.

"A good part of the dyspepsia that prevails in America," said the chef of an exclusive hotel to a Philadelphia Record writer, "is due to the custom of baking instead of roasting meats. We say we roast our meats. We talk glibly of 'roast beef,' 'roast chicken,' and so on; but what we should say is 'baked beef' and 'baked chicken,' for anything cooked in an oven is baked, not roasted. We don't talk of roast bread, do we? Yet we cook our meat in the oven as our bread is cooked."

"To roast meat you must cook it on a spit before the fire. You must turn it constantly. Every little while you must baste it. It is in every way better than meat baked. It is tenderer, sweeter and more digestible. Also its appearance is more appetizing, and the appearance of a viand has a tremendous effect on its digestibility."

"Experiment—actual experiment—has shown that the sight of an appetizing dish starts the gastric juice to flowing instantly, and that such a dish digests much more quickly and thoroughly than an unappetizing one. Altogether we ought to go back to the genuine roasting process of our ancestors, and our health would improve, and there would be less talk about vegetarianism."

"Of course, I, and all good chefs, actually roast meat. But roasting is with the average cook in the average American household an unknown process."

FREE BED FOR CATS.

Endowed by a Servant Girl Who Died in Philadelphia Some Years Ago.

In an animal hospital in Philadelphia there is a free bed for cats, endowed by a servant, Ruth Darling, who died in that city some years ago. She had always liked animals, and the Philadelphia Record says that during her last illness she said to her employer:

"I have a little money saved, sir. I should like to do something with it for cats. Cats have a cruel, hard life. I'd like to found a bed in a hospital for them, so that when the miserable creatures are sick they can be taken care of."

"Well, Ruth, the idea is a good one," said the woman's employer, "but such a bed would cost money."

"I know it, sir, and I've got the money," she returned. "Look, sir!" and the young woman took from under her pillow a bank-book.

The book showed to her credit a sum more than sufficient for the establishment of the bed. And accordingly there is now in the Maher Animal Hospital a commodious iron cage with the inscription, "The Ruth Darling Bed" on it in gold letters.

Like a popular club, this bed has always a waiting list, a long line of wretched and suffering cats waiting to be treated without charge. Last year 56 cats were cared for.

Imitation Sealskins.

There is a family in Milwaukee that possesses the secret of a process whereby sealskin wraps and Buffalo robes can be made from the skin of a sheep. The secret has been in the family for years, having been discovered by a member of the family who worked in a tannery in Australia. By this process the finest furs can be imitated by the use of any old pelt with hair on it. He says that in making a sealskin jacket out of the hides of Belgian hares the imitation is so good it would defy an expert. The change is in the dyeing process and the chemical action on the hair refines it without injuring it.

Railway Travel in Germany.

Almost half of all railway travel in Germany is third-class. More passengers use fourth-class than second and less than one in 20 rides first-class.

A Bad Record.

Twelve per cent. of all deaths in Switzerland, which is supposed to be a paradise for people afflicted with consumption, are caused by that disease.

"Corn-Wheat."

A new grain, known as corn-wheat, is being grown in eastern Washington. It has the nature of both corn and wheat, possessing the fattening qualities of corn and the corn flavor. In appearance it resembles wheat. Its grains are twice as large as those of ordinary wheat. It yields 60 to 100 bushels an acre, and seems to solve the problem of fattening hogs in the Pacific northwest, as corn is not successfully raised in that country.

TOURISTS AND THEIR MONEY.

The Amount Left by Them in Mexico Is Said to Be Very Great.

Every year tourist travel to this country grows in volume, and the season tends to begin earlier. Just how much money tourists leave in the country it is impossible to say, with any approach to exactitude, but it must be great, says the Mexican Herald. This money is just so much clear gain to the country, and serves to increase the prevailing prosperity, for if the great sums sent here by investors make business good and oil the machinery of trade and finance, the smaller amounts brought by travelers, swelling into a very respectable aggregate, stimulate trade, give profits to the hotel keepers, transportation companies, and a small army of people who thrive during the tourist season. It is said that Italian cities take in from European and American tourist travel $60,000,000 a year. This seems exaggerated, but notoriously many famous old cities are kept alive by the money spent by sightseers. Those ancient cities, filled with monuments of art and enjoying a relatively mild winter climate, keenly realize the need of preserving every bit of antiquity, for no one may destroy a noteworthy facade without permission from the authorities, nor may works of art go out of the country if the government decides in the negative. Switzerland with its literally thousands of hotels, big and little, exists on tourist travel, and curious enough has to buy a large part of the food the travelers consume from Belgium, Denmark, etc. Yet Switzerland makes a handsome profit, for Swiss thrift is proverbial.

THE "TOUCH" ARTISTIC.

Thief Takes Pride in Going Through Somebody's Pockets in Deft Manner.

We cut society too much on the square. Perpendicular and horizontal lines do not make the only intelligent division, says a writer in McClure's. The relationship of Raphael with a pickpocket I talked to once is more intimate essentially than it is with some makers of "pictures" and molders of "statuary." The thief had been arrested because, having obtained permission to live in New York provided he did not work there, he was caught stealing a watch.

"Why did you do it?" I asked him.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said. "I simply couldn't help it. I'm no kleptomaniac. It isn't the stealing I like, but the fun of doing a hard job prettily. This is the second time I've made. The first was like this: I saw a rich, fat man in a crowd, and I noticed that his watch was hung in a new way, hard to break. My fingers itched, not for the watch, but to break it off. I moved up, lifted the watch, walked away with it and then went back and hung the thing on the chain again. This second time something like that. I saw a delicate job, tried it, got the watch, and just then the fellow happened to look for the time. He 'hollered,' and a detective nearby pinched me. I don't think I'm what you'd call a natural thief, but I like to work with my fingers, and I like the excitement of stealing."

INNOVATIONS ON THE FARM.

Rural Mails, Telephones and Up-to-Date Ideas Change Conditions Materially.

The prairie west is more progressive than most people believe. It takes up the new ideas quickly and pushes them to the limit. In rural delivery the states of Kansas and Nebraska are as progressive as Ohio. Out on the plains, 20 miles and more west of Kansas City and Omaha, are the rural wagons making their daily trips. The towns are mostly on the railroads running east and west, says Leslie's Weekly. Most of the rural routes run north and south, and each covers approximately 50 miles in the round trip, serving 100 families. Out on the edge of Kansas, close to the Oklahoma line, where only a few years ago it was a cattle range, are the white wagons. From the little town of Caldwell go seven wagons, serving 700 families. Out on the ranches, where the cowboys are watching the improved herds, the morning Kansas City papers with the full Associated Press news up to 2 o'clock in the morning are delivered at 10 a. m. Every event of importance in the world's history of the last 24 hours is thus known. Fast mail trains have brought the papers to the county seat and the carriers started about eight a. m. on their trips.

Scientific Study of Wells.

A division of hydrology has been organized in the hydrographic branch of the United States geological survey. A special feature of its work will be the study of wells and of water-bearing strata in the earth's crust. All problems relating to underground water will be within the scope of the new division. Not only the western states and territories, where irrigation is required, are to be included in the field of active work, but in every state of the union special studies will be made and trustworthy information collected.

Automatic Baby-Tender.

A Swiss mechanic claims to have invented an automatic baby nurse. The apparatus is attached to a cradle. If the baby cries airwaves cause specially arranged wires to operate a phonograph which sings a lullaby, while simultaneously clockwork is released and rocks the cradle. When the crying stops the cradle stops rocking.

A NOTICE

The women of Central Kentucky have been led to expect much from Kaufman, Straus & Co. in the matter of Tailor-Made Dresses—and rightly.

We have taught our public to look for lavish variety in Fine, Ready-to-Wear Garments. This season, we, ourselves, are astonished at the assemblage presented. Perhaps we have been carried too far by our enthusiasm over the fine things we have found.

In order to introduce these goods speedily and effectively, we have decided to offer them below their actual value at the very beginning of this season, and thus get our patrons to judge for themselves of the superiority of these fine goods.

The Suits and Dresses we are showing represent the very newest and swellest designs; none of them in the house over ten days, yet they will be reduced to the following prices:

$37 50 and $35 00 Suits	will be Sold at $30 00
32 50 and 30 00 Suits	will be Sold at 25 00
27 50 and 25 00 Suits	will be Sold at 20 00
22 50 and 20 00 Suits	will be Sold at 17 50
18 00 and 15 50 Suits	will be Sold at 15 00
16 50 and 15 00 Suits	will be Sold at 13 50

The colors are Black, Navy, Royal, Brown and Mixtures. The materials are Cheviots, Cloths, Etamines, Mistrals and Veilings. Sizes from 32 to 40. Misses' sizes 14 and 16 years; small-sized ladies can also be fitted from these sizes.

When alterations are necessary, every garment will be made to fit in our own attractive department.

The Goebel Murder Trial.

George R. Hemphill, now a Government employe at Washington, was one of the witnesses introduced by the defense in the Jim Howard case at Frankfort. His most important statement, made under cross-examination, was that in April, 1900, during the first grand jury investigation of the murder of William Goebel, W. S. Taylor told him to make it light on Yontsey in his testimony before the jury. Hemphill admitted that he had been avoiding the processes of the Kentucky courts and said he had been trying to forget what he knew about the tragedy. Berry Howard was on the stand, and the chief feature of his testimony was a faulty memory. He admitted he had been getting witnesses for Jim Howard and for Caleb Powers. J. B. Matthews, who testified Tuesday, was cross-examined at length. Other witnesses were Grant L. Roberts, Sam S. Shepherd and George L. Barnes, all of whom were clerks in the Republican Auditor's office at the time of the assassination. In testifying as to the disappearance of his Marlin rifle and his efforts to get it back, Roberts said under cross-examination that he might have "suspected it was used to kill Goebel."

Back Tax Collection.

The finance committee of the Bourbon Fiscal Court, to whom was referred the question of allowance to Denis Dundon, for his services in securing the assessment of the delinquent franchise taxes against the L. & N. Railroad Company, settled the claim for $700. The amount of taxes recovered for Bourbon county was something over $3,600, covering the years from 1896 to 1901 inclusive, and this proceeding will add about $200,000 to the assessed wealth of the county.

It is announced that the ladies are to wear Panama hats this Summer. Here is food for the paragraphers.

Lexington sports are wagering on Beckham winning by a big majority, the figures running beyond 20,000.

There is no mistaking where the Chicago News stands on the great question when it says: "Let every man lend his good right arm to the support of the shirt waist."

CONGRATULATIONS.—The Lexington Leader says: Lexington friends are sending congratulations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Clay, Jr., of "The Heights," Bourbon county, for their son who is about a week old and is the first grandchild in the family. The baby is quite royally welcomed and is called Thomas Henry Clay the Third.

DEATHS.

—Mr. John T. Megibben, son of the late T. J. Megibben, of Cynthiana, died in that city Tuesday night. He was aged about 38 years and was one of the most popular young men in that city. He was a member of the Democratic County Committee and strong party worker and influential in party councils. He was never married, and leaves besides his mother, three brothers and four sisters. He was an Elk and that body will take part in the funeral services this afternoon.

Rev. J. E. Moss, of the K. W. C., Winchester, visited his sister, Mrs. J. W. Crates here Monday and Tuesday. He will preach in Paris again next Sunday—morning and night.

If there is a Republican in Kentucky or out of it, who still holds to the belief that there was not a damnable conspiracy to assassinate Mr. Goebel, he would confer a favor by standing up that he might be recognized. — Georgetown Times.

CUPID'S ARROW.

The marriage of Mr. John Throckmorton Clark, of Bourbon, and Miss Rosa Lee Hall was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's cousin, Capt. Yearrington, near Lexington. It was a rainbow wedding and the effect was beautifully carried out in the decorations, luncheon and bridesmaids gowns.

The bridal party came down the long winding stairway and formed a picturesque scene just beneath the arch separating the drawing room and the parlor. Portiers of ropes of smilax, tied with ribbons and bunches of lilies of the valley were among the attractive decorations. Rev. Preston Blake performed the ceremony and the bride was given away by Captain Yearrington.

The bride's gown was a beautiful creation of muslin and lace over white taffeta with the usual veil gracefully draped and caught up with bunches of lilies of the valley. The bride's maids were Miss Belle Yearrington, Miss Ethel Smith, of Lexington, and Miss Sallie Clark, of Paris, sister of the groom. The groomsmen were Mr. Fred Yearrington, of Lexington, Mr. James Hamilton, Newport, Mr. Robert Clark, Paris. Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and party and guests were invited to the dining hall, where a very elaborate luncheon was served.

The bridal party was given a breakfast yesterday morning at the home of the groom.

Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Speed Hilder, Miss Cook, Misses Willie and Sue Johnson, Mrs. Lida Conway, Miss Jennie Kenney, Messrs. R. B. Adair and Dr. Bailly, Miss McClintock and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark.

EL CACIQUE

(Copyright, 1903, By Daily Story Pub. Co.)

JUANITA lay back in the hammock, her brown eyes sparkling beneath the lace mantilla, her little foot, daintily shod in its cloaked stocking and high heeled slipper, softly tapping the floor as she swung lazily back and forth.

In the distance El Cacique stood boldly out against the sky, its summit, rent with awful chasms, crowned by a mass of stone that reared its self aloft like some huge monument.
"Ah querido mio," said Juanita,
"you may well look at El Cacique.
Much as you love me, I fear you would not prove your love as did the Indian girl, whose lonely tomb is on its awful summit."

"Have you never heard the legend of El Cacique? Then let me tell you how we southern women love, and what an Indian maiden did to prove her love for one she could not worship more than I do you, my own."

"Long years ago, before Columbus landed on these shores, and when the virgin forests of the isle were peopled by mighty spirits that tempted men and sought the downfall of their souls, the land was ruled by two great chiefs. Luquillo, young, gay and handsome, ruled all the southern portion of the isle, and gave his name to the rugged hills whose summits marked the northern limits of his realm."

"Juzudi, aged and infirm, ruled on the northern half, his whole existence centered in his daughter Ulloa, who reigned at will among the hills and valleys of the land, revered and loved by all."

"Though separated by rugged mountains in whose gloomy forests roamed evil spirits, Luquillo and Ulloa had often met, and loved each other with the fierce and burning passion of the southern lands. The dark and gloomy forests and rocky defiles of the mountains prevented frequent meetings of the lovers, but owing to the possession of a talisman presented to them by a friendly spirit, each was enabled to assure themselves at any time of the well being of the other."

"One day, while sitting with her old nurse and companion, Ulloa was startled to see her talisman grow dark and lusterless. Terrified at the thought of the illness and possible death of her lover, she prevailed upon the old woman to accompany her, and set off before daylight on a journey to her lover's side."

"As the two women advanced, the way became more and more difficult, until when far within the shadows of the sombre woods, Ulloa found herself face to face with an impossible wall, and knowing she had lost the path threw herself upon the ground in an agony of tears. What was her surprise a moment later, to hear herself accosted by name, and on looking up, to find confronting her a venerable old man, who asked her why she wept. Believing him to be one of the officers of her father's household, who had noticed her departure, and followed upon her path, Ulloa poured out her tale of sorrow and demanded his assistance."

"Know, oh princess," said the stranger, "I am El Enemigo, condemned for evil deeds to pass my time in darkness. Your lover now lies dying in his palace, the God you pray to, deaf to your entreaties, while I, and I alone, have power to save him from his fate and give him back to health and happiness and you. Look in this coco shell I fill with limpid water from the brook, and see your lover, and decide if what I say is true or false."

Taking the shell in her trembling hands Ulloa looked upon the water, and in its crystal surface saw her lover stretched upon his couch.
She saw with agony his breathing catch and falter, and as his face grew cold and awful with the ashen hue of death, she dropped the fatal shell, and falling on her knees implored the mercy of the impassive being who stood beside her.

"Oh, spirit, save him," she cried,
"save my Luquillo, give him back to me, take anything I have, but give me love for one short year, and as its end, come claim me for your own, but let my darling live."

"Princess," replied the spirit, "you call on me for help and name the price yourself, I take you at your word. Luquillo lives, take up the coco shell and in its limpid liquid see the tide of life return and tint his cheek. But think not this is permanent. My power alone has snatched him from the jaws of death, and it alone will hold him stationary in his fight for life, until you bring me from your home the things I need to guarantee his quick and certain journey back to health and happiness."

"Take this magic bone, and with its help, take from your father's arm ere he awakens from his morning sleep, three drops of blood, then hasten back to me. Three days will I await your coming, and if at sunset of the third day you are not here, and have not brought the blood, Luquillo dies."

"Ulloa reached home just as the sun set. Early the next morning she slipped into her father's apartments, where he lay surrounded by his guards, and gently pricking his arm with the magic bone, secured the drops of blood without awakening him. On the morning of the third day she slipped from the palace and hastily took her way along the well-known path, dreading, yet hoping, for the meeting with El Enemi-go. Hardly had she set foot within the forest when he stood before her.

"Trembling in every limb, she produced at his command the magic bone, and with it made her mark upon a parchment already prepared for her signature. As she made her fatal mark she shuddered to see her father's blood drip, drop by drop, from the de-vish instrument, and, hiding her face in her hands, rushed madly from the accursed spot. Blindly she hurried onward, and had almost reached her home when arrested by the sound of wailing proceeding from the royal palace."

"For a moment she stood rooted to the spot then rushed wildly into the building, only to learn of her father's sudden death a few moments ago, and be hailed by the attendant priests and followers as chieftainess."

"Denied by custom all participation in the rights and ceremonies attendant upon her father's burial, she remained for three days confined to her dwelling, at the end of which she emerged to take part in the coronation feasts, and learned of the arrival of her lover with his attendant body guards."

"Queen and priestess as she was, custom demanded that she wed immediately upon ascending the throne and with apparent reluctance, but a heart overflowing with joy, saw herself given in marriage to the man she loved."

"For one year they lived a life of happiness beneath the brilliant sun.
Then one night as she slept peacefully by her husband's side she felt herself drawn rapidly up into the air and her power of speech desert her, but not before she had time to utter one despairing cry of farewell. Through the air she was borne with incredible swiftness, until, arrived at the summit of El Cacique, she was placed in the cave that crowned its highest point and the entrance closed, all save one

TAKING THE SHELL IN HER TREM-BLING HANDS.

small opening through which came light and air.

"Aroused by her forlorn cry which echoed down the night, Luquillo sprang from his bed, and, noting the absence of his wife, rushed blindly into the night. For days and days he wandered, until nearly mad with suspense, he struggled to the summit of El Cacique."

"Pacing slowly round, the gigantic stone that towered sheer above the mountain's crest, he heard his name whispered soft and low in the voice he loved so well."

"Madly he dashed himself upon the insensible rock, beating it with his hands and calling it to open and give up his love. Baffled and bleeding, but sustained by the sound of his beloved one's voice, he carefully examined the grim faces of the rock and finally espied what appeared to be a narrow path leading to the opening high above his head through which came the sound of Ulloa's voice."

"Slowly and painfully he toiled along the path, cutting his hands and bruising his limbs at every step, until, within a few steps of the opening, the dim path he had been following totally disappeared, leaving nothing but the smooth face of the perpendicular rock between him and his lost love. Here he stood and listened to the voice telling him of her love and trust and how, for his sake, she had sold herself to death that he might live."

"Maddened by his helplessness, he gathered all his strength and leaped boldly forward toward the opening, succeeding in grasping its very edge with his torn and bleeding hands. Here he hung, poised between heaven and earth, until exhausted and faint, he breathed one sigh of farewell into his loved one's ear and, relaxing his hold, was dashed to pieces on the rocks below."

"Kiss me, querido mio, the story makes me sad."

Likes Salvation Army Work.

Miss Marian Fergus Woolman, 21 years old, of Burlington, N. J., lately a pupil of Vassar college and said to be worth $100,000, has deserted society for the Salvation army barracks. She nightly exhorts at the street meetings.
At first her relatives and friends laughed at her, for they thought it a passing fad, but they have become alarmed at seeing the fad apparently developed into a passion.

The story that there is a person living in California 150 years old is incredible. Memory begins to fail seriously at 75, and at 100 it is practically obliterated. That extra 50 must be apocryphal.

FREE TRIPS TO ST. LOUIS WORLD'S FAIR.
ALL EXPENSES OF THE 120 MOST POPULAR SCHOOL TEACHERS IN THE STATE PAID.

KENTUCKY BUILDING WORLD'S FAIR

member of faculty of academy, college or university, medical, dental or theological institution, Exhibit Committee alone excepted.

Names of all school children voting to be enrolled in the Kentucky Building at the Exposition. Kentucky will have an educational exhibit occupying 2,500 square feet of space in the Palace of Education. The Exposition is to be the greatest international event in the world's history. The 120 teachers chosen will be lucky indeed in being tendered this trip to the Fair. Every county elects its own most popular educator. The county outside of Jefferson casting the largest number of votes will be allowed to send two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular.

THE VOTES WILL BE TEN CENTS EACH, TEN CONSTITUTING A BALLOT.

At ten cents each every school child in the State will be able to cast at least one vote for his or her favorite teacher. But the voting will not be confined to school children.

PARENTS OF PUPILS OR ANY OF THEIR FRIENDS MAY VOTE. The purpose of the Association being to elect the most popular school teacher in each county, as so considered by the public generally, as well as by the school children. Ballots contain ten spaces, so that of ten pupils may be arranged and each giving ten cents be credited with his or her vote. If one person desires to cast a vote, it may be done by writing his or her name on one of the spaces and remit-ting ten cents. It is not required that the name of the person voting be given at all. All of the spaces for voters' names may be left blank. The Association wants, however, to enroll in the contest. Pupils are asked therefore to sign their names plainly to the ballots.

ALL EXPENSES OF THE TEACHERS WILL BE PAID BY THE ASSOCIATION. This will include railroad transportation from Louisville to St. Louis and return, board at one of the best hotels in the city for six days and admission to the exposition grounds for six days.

THREE PARTIES WILL BE MADE UP FROM THE MOST POPULAR TEACHERS to make the trip more profitable and more enjoyable. Each of these parties will consist of forty (40) teachers. This would make a total of 120 teachers, but as there are only 119 counties in Kentucky, the Association has decided to allow two teachers—the most popular and the second most popular—to go from that county—Jefferson excepted—which casts the greatest number of votes in the contest.

ALL TEACHERS IN THE STATE STAND ON AN EQUAL FOOTING in this contest. The teacher with only twenty pupils may receive more votes than the teacher with five or six times as many pupils in his or her school, because the voting is not confined to children. The public will be an important factor.

Votes may be cast for any person who taught school during 1902 or is teaching now. This gives the teacher of a five-month school, which closed in November or December, the opportunity to be voted for during the vacation period.

ANY NUMBER OF BALLOTS MAY BE CAST AT ONE TIME. There is no limit. The more dollars sent in for any one teacher the more votes he or she will be credited with.

ONE DOLLAR CASTS TEN VOTES; TWO DOLLARS CASTS TWENTY VOTES; THREE DOLLARS CASTS THIRTY VOTES; FOUR DOLLARS CASTS FORTY VOTES; FIVE DOL-LARS CASTS FIFTY VOTES; TEN DOLLARS CASTS A HUNDRED VOTES; ONE HUNDRED DOL-LARS CASTS ONE THOUSAND VOTES.

All of the money received in this contest, over and above that used in defraying expenses of the 120 most popular teachers of the State on their trip to the World's Fair, will go to the erection of a Kentucky Building at the Exposition; so every voter in this contest may have the additional satisfaction of knowing that he has made a worthy cause.

THE STANDING OF THE CONTESTANTS WILL BE PRINTED FREQUENTLY in each county to show his or her friends how the race is being run. Begin voting now for your favorite school teacher. The votes will be counted under the supervision of the Educational Exhibit Committee of the Association. The personnel of this committee is as follows: Prof. J. G. Buwalda, President, Louisville; Prof. H. V. McChesney, Frankfort; Prof. R. P. Hallett, Louisville; Prof. W. H.
Atholmew, Louisville; Prof. F. Paul Anderson, Lexington; Dr. Chase Palmer, Danville; President William Dinsdale, Jackson; Dr. W. G. Frost, Berea; Dr. B. B. Huntout, Louisville; Dr.
C. Y. Mullins, Louisville; Dr. Arthur Yager, Georgetown; Superintendent M. A. Cassidy, Lexington; Superintendent S. L. Fogg, Frankfort; Prof. C. J. Crabbe, Ashland; Prof. McHenry Spencer, Louisville; Miss Fattie S. Hill, Louisville; Mrs. Emily E. Bracken, Louisville; and V. B. Tucker, Louisville. Members of the Educational Committee are not eligible to election in this contest.

REMEMBER EVERY COUNTY ELECTS ITS OWN FAVORITE TEACHER. Competition between counties only applies to the race for the 120th trip, the county outside of Jefferson, casting the largest total number of votes being granted the distinction of sending two teachers.

The result will be announced in every paper in the state, and, in addition to this, a congratulatory message will go to the teacher elected in each county. Later the details of the trip will be arranged, each teacher chosen being given the privilege of selecting the month—June, July or August, 1904—in which he or she wants to make the trip.

CLIP OUT THIS BALLOT, FILL UP AND MAIL TO THE SECRETARY.

RAILWAY TRAVELING RISKS.

The Lines of England Said to Be Much Safer Than Those of This Country.

In 1901 train accidents did not cause the death of a single passenger in the British isles, though this was the first year in railway history in which so gratifying a result was shown, according to the London Mail. Against this the statistical report of the interstate commerce commission of the United States shows that in the year ending June 30, 1900—the latest figures available—249 passengers were killed and 4,128 were injured in railway accidents in the United States. Including deaths and injuries to employees and trespassers the figures reached a total of 7,865 killed and 50,320 injured. Many of the accidents in which these casualties arose were due to carelessness on the part of railway servants.

The reports of the English railway companies in 1901 indicated that by accidents directly or indirectly connected with railways—the best figures that can be compared with the preceding group—1,277 persons were killed and 18,375 injured.

Railway accident insurance rates in the states are far higher than those existing here, which are infinitesimal as compared with the premiums charged for general insurance against accidents. It will be seen how good a risk railway accident insurances are for English companies when it is said that the average number of fatal accidents among passengers is only about one in every 4,000, 000 per annum, or ten persons in the whole population. Furthermore, most of the English companies offer double payments in case of death by railway accidents.

GETTING DRUNK ON BREAD.

Chemist Says It Can Be Done If One Eats Enough of the Fresh Article.

"You could get drunk on fresh bread if you eat enough of it at one time," said a chemist to a woman with a white ribbon in her buttonhole.

"I don't believe it," the woman answered, reports the Philadelphia Record.

"And yet it is a fact," the chemist pursued. It used to be thought that the alcohol which bread in its fermenting generated all passed out in the baking, but Thomas Bolas, a distinguished scientist, has proved that bread, after it is ready for eating, still contains alcohol. I myself analyzed the other day 12 loaves of fresh bread, and found that they contained on the average alcohol in the proportion of .314 per cent. When, therefore, you have eaten 100 pounds of bread you have consumed five ounces of alcohol. That is quite as much alcohol as you get in a pint of whisky.

"You, madam, eat, I fancy, about 350 pounds of bread a year. That is 3,500 pounds in ten years. In those 3,500 pounds there are 175 ounces of alcohol, which is the same as 17 quarts of whisky. Think of it! Every ten years you consume 17 quarts of whisky with your bread!"

"I don't believe it," said the woman with the white ribbon.

CAPACITY FOR SILENCE.

English People Lead Those of All Other Nations in the Art of Keeping Still.

The Anglo-Saxon race, according to a writer in the London Queen, has a tremendous capacity for silence. "Recently," he says, "I have been traveling and seeing at close quarters people of nearly all European nations, as well as Americans, Arabs, negroes and Berbers. Of these the English and Americans seem to have most closely laid to heart Rosseau's doctrine regarding the vanity of continual chattering. I often see English people sitting in solemn silence at their little tables in the cafe-manger, regarding, with a certain frigid surprise, their chattering and laughing neighbors. Americans may be, as they are often said to be, brilliant conversationalists in general society, but they have apparently little to say in the family circle. French family parties make their welkin ring with their sallies. Germans lift the roof with their guttural uproar. The peculiar, complaining sound of Italian voices seldom ceases even for a moment. But I have seen an American couple sit through dinner in unbroken silence, and in the hotel in which I am now staying, I dine every evening at the table next to an American father, mother and two strapping daughters, who seldom utter a word and never carry on continuous conversation."

The American Nile.

This name, Mr. R. H. Forbes, of the agricultural experiment station at Tucson, Ariz., says, is applicable to the river Colorado because of its possibilities as a source of irrigation for the alluvial bottom lands that surround it. Between 400,000 and 500,000 acres of these lands have been surveyed. The Colorado resembles the Nile in being subject to an annual summer rise sufficient to overflow the extensive areas of its border and delta lands. Its silts also possess great fertilizing properties, so that lands irrigated with the Colorado's muddy waters require no additional fertilization. Mr. Forbes avers that when the Colorado is fully utilized it will become "the mother of an occidental Egypt."

A Steamer's Momentum.

Experiments show that a large ocean steamer, going at 19 knots an hour, will move over a distance of two miles after its engines are stopped and reversed, and no authority gives less than a mile or a mile and a half as the required space to stop its progress.

EVERYBODY WANTS A TIP.

This Account Has It That New York Exceeds All Other Cities in the Habit.

"There's a lot of caloric air sprouted down here about the extent of the tipping evil in Washington and a good deal of it may be on the level at that, but we don't go the length of tipping barkeepers down this way, anyhow," said a man who had just returned from a New York trip to a Washington Post writer. "I saw that idiotic stunt come off in New York yesterday afternoon."

"A few days ago I saw another New Yorker tip a clerk in a small upper Broadway telephone office. He handed over the telegram that he had written, saying to the clerk: 'Make that rush, will you?' and throwing a half dollar and a quarter on the counter."

"The telegram footed up 55 cents and when the clerk passed back the brace of dimes for change the New Yorker said: 'That's all right, and the telephone clerk, wearing a pleased expression, tucked the silver into his waistcoat and hurried to the rear to get the telegram on the wire. That looked like a kind of greasy transaction to me, but all of that kind of stuff goes in New York. By the time I get back to New York on my next trip I expect to be sandbagged into tipping a cop tuppence ha'penny for directing me to a street, or handing a car conductor an extra nickel for letting me take a surreptitious puff at a cigar on a back platform, and I wouldn't be surprised if the time would come along when a fellow will have to tip the paying teller of a New York bank for cashing a check for him."

THE TITLES OF MAYORS.

Proper Form of Addressing Municipal Heads in Leading English Cities.

When, asks the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, is a mayor entitled to the prefix "right worshipful?" The question is not a purely academic one, says the London Telegraph, as I have seen the "right worshipful" mayor of St. Pancras in print lately. The mayors of London boroughs, following the example of those in the country, are generally content to be styled "worshipful." The lord mayors who have arisen in the last ten years at Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, Birmingham, Sheffield and Bristol copy the precedents of London and York, and are "right honorable." Strictly, I believe, the mayors of some ancient cities—such as Exeter, Chester and Norwich—are by custom styled "right worshipful." Bristol was one of these cities till the creation of its lord mayoralty three years ago. These fine distinctions recall a story of the rural deans of Oxford diocese in the days of Bishop Samuel Wilberforce. These rural deans represented to their diocesan that they had a grievance in the fact that, whereas archbishops were "most reverend," bishops "right reverend" and deans "very reverend," they had no title to distinguish them from their fellow-clergy. The bishop suggested "rather reverend." Then the subject dropped.

AN UNKNOWN CENTENARIAN.

New Grenada Semi-Spaniard Who Claimed to Have Lived 184 Years in 1878.

The interest in centenarians is always great, and, indeed, to some people fascinating. As recently as 1878 a certain Michael Solis, of semi-Spanish origin, resided in Bogota, Colombia, and was alleged to be 184 years old. La Epoca, a new Granada journal, wrote at the time of one Miguel Lollo, whom we take to be identical with Michael Solis: "The signature of this venerable anciano (ancient) is affixed to a deed relating to the foundation of a convent, and is dated 1712. Dr. Hernandez, who had heard about this Miguel Lollo, was desirous of making his acquaintance, and found him busy gardening. His skin is like parchment and his hair as white as snow." It militates against the genuineness of Michael Solis that during the last 60 years or so previous to what we may describe as his discovery no one had ever seen or heard of him, says the London Lancet. He is apparently unknown to such well-known writers on centenarians as Easton, of Salisbury, and Sharon Turner.

THE DAYS OF MOTOR CARS.

How We Shall Get About at That Period of the World's History.

When the motor car shall have ousted the horse vehicle, says Henry Norman in the World's Work, there will be no need for families to herd together. To make a call 30 miles distant will be nothing when everyone has an automobile, and consequently we shall be able to live with great benefit to ourselves in charming but now hopelessly out-of-the-way country places, and yet be in no way cut off from the advantages of town life. Theaters, concerts, good doctors, good shops will be within reach wherever we may pitch our tents; there will be no need to disfigure the landscape with networks of railways. Our streets will be cleaner and quieter, and our goods delivered much more expeditiously. According to Mr. Norman, our grandchildren will wonder how we dragged along at all in the days when we were dependent on horses, trains and bicycles.

The Graves of Panama.

More men have died and are buried in the Isthmus of Panama, along the line of the proposed canal, than on any equal amount of territory of the world.

QUEER THINGS ABOUT SONGS.

Some Well-Known and Even Popular New Date Back to Time of Crusades.

Martin Luther was not the first to object to "letting the devil have all the good tunes." The bishop of Ossory in the fourteenth century used such times as "Do, Do, Nightingale, Sing Full Merry," in compiling a book of hymns. Mr. L. C. Elson, in the International Quarterly, states that the song of Deborah and Barak in the Scriptures, "with its extemporization, its clapping of hands to mark the rhythm, its alternation of solo and chorus, would not be unlike the singing at a camp meeting on a southern plantation."

The drum major of a military band is a survival of the champion who strode, twirling his sword, at the head of an army in the old days, challenging the champion of the other side to combat.

"We Won't Go Home Till Morning" has a more interesting history than any other song. It was first sung in the Holy Land in honor of a French crusader named Mambren. The melody was caught by the Saracens, and is still sung in the east. In France the name "Mambren" was centuries afterwards altered to "Malbrooke," derivatively applied to the duke of Marlborough. "Malbrooke he went to war"—the words fitted well enough. The further statement, true of the old crusader, "he's dead and buried," was applied in the spirit of hope to the victor of Blenheim.

"Du Maurier in 'Trilby' makes great use of 'Malbrooke,' as he does of 'Den Bolt.' Beethoven used the theme in an orchestral score, 'The Battle of Vittoria.' In England the song is oftenest fitted to the words, 'For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.'"

Scottish folk songs are most difficult to imitate. Mendelssohn did it so successfully, however, that most people who sing "Oh, Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast?" take it for an old native air.

THE OCEAN'S DEEPEST HOLE.

Spot in the Pacific Which Well Deserves the Name of "Davy Jones' Locker."

The private retreat of Davy Jones has been at last discovered, and this fact is noted as a triumph for American geographical science, says the Brooklyn Eagle. The deepest hole in the ocean's bottom is found 100 miles from Guam, a recently acquired American territorial possession. It is about five miles deep, 28,578 feet, practically the height of Mount Everest. This hole should not be confounded with Davy Jones' locker generally. The sailorman recognizes the entire salt sea expanse as the "Locker." Davy standing for the evil spirit presiding over the demons of the vastly deep, visible to the eye of superstitious imagination as a monster of gigantic mien, having an enormous mouth, three rows of sharp teeth, huge eyes and nostrils emitting blue flashes. His particular headquarters have been unknown until the Albatross discovered and fathomed it, amid great professional and lay excitement. The place where the sounding was made is called the Tonga-Kermadec deep of the Moser basin. Sailormen, supposed to have the greatest fear of shallows and rocks near the surface, will, on the contrary, very likely feel like giving this locality a wide berth. If a human body could be lowered to the bottom of this stupendous hole it would probably be pressed by the billions of tons of weight into the proportions of a child's doll, and the consistency of open hearth steel.

GHOSTS LACK ORIGINALITY.

All Spooks Have Fixed Habits and Adhere to Time-Worn Traditions.

When you read one of these stories you have read them all. Although the behavior of ghosts may appear eccentric when judged by the standard of conduct prevailing among the living, their habits are, in fact, more regular, they seem to possess little character or originality, and probably their ideas are very limited, says London Truth. Some of them walk along the passage or up the stairs; others knock on the walls or furniture, ring bells, slam doors or break crockery; now and then you come across one who shriekes; and there seem to be a few stray specimens who appear (and disappear). But their faculties do not go beyond this. A very remarkable proof of their limitations, or their slavish adherence to tradition, is that, though I have before me at the present moment a dozen authenticated ghosts who have been heard walking upstairs, there seems to be no case on record in which a ghost has been heard walking down. Why anybody should think it worth while to chronicle the movements of such uninteresting creatures I cannot understand. An account of the day's doings of a flock of sheep would be very much more exciting.

Gold in Quill.

A French explorer, Le Roux, informs us that the natives of Abyssinia have a peculiar way of carrying the gold which they find in the beds of streams to market. They find it in the shape of dust, and tiny nuggets, which they put into large quills as transparent as glass tubes. The brokers who buy it work it up into the form of circles of the size of an ordinary finger ring, but without closing the circle, for the purchaser always insists on twisting it to see that it does not contain any adulteration. "Experienced fingers can tell at once whether the yielding metal has the exact malleability of pure gold."

The wheat looks very much like the wheat grown in this country, but the grains are almost as hard as flint. Mr. McDowney will also plant some dari and barley seeds from the same location. Dari is a growth resembling horse weeds and is used for stock feed.
